Trump announces grisly death of Islamic State leader Baghdadi during U.S. raid

Suicide occurred when Baghdadi reached dead end of a tunnel.

U.S. President Donald Trump makes a statement at the White House following reports that U.S. forces attacked Islamic State leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi (inset) in northern Syria. GETTY IMAGES

U.S. President Donald Trump on Sunday announced that Islamic State leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi killed himself during a daring overnight raid by elite U.S. special operations forces in Syria, in a major victory as he fights a Democratic-led impeachment inquiry.

Baghdadi died alongside three of his children by detonating an explosives-laden vest when he fled U.S. forces into a dead-end tunnel during the attack, which took place in the Idlib region in northwest Syria, the Republican president said in a televised address to the nation from the White House.

Under Iraqi-born Baghdadi's rule, Islamic State – which at one point controlled swathes of Syria and Iraq – was responsible for gruesome attacks against religious minorities and attacks on five continents in the name of a form of ultra-fanatical Islam.

"Last night the United States brought the world's No.1 terrorist leader to justice," Trump said in extended remarks describing the raid.

U.S. Defense Secretary Mark Esper said the goal of the operation had been to capture Baghdadi if possible but kill him if necessary.

Esper said two U.S. forces suffered minor injuries during the operation but have already returned to duty. Trump said a military dog was wounded.

A U.S. official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the operation was staged from an airbase in western Iraq.

The death of Baghdadi was an important win for Trump weeks after his sudden decision to withdraw U.S. troops from Syria sparked a wave of harsh criticism, including from fellow Republicans, that the move would lead to a resurgence of Islamic State, which is also known as ISIS.

"The thug who tried so hard to intimidate others spent his last moments in utter fear, panic and dread, terrified of the American forces coming down on him," Trump said.

"He reached the end of the tunnel as our dogs chased him down. He ignited his vest, killing himself and his three children. His body was mutilated by the blasts. The tunnel had caved on him," he added.

Russia opened up its airspace for the raid and Kurdish allies gave some helpful information, according to Trump, who watched the operation unfold with Vice President Mike Pence and others.

Trump said the raid would not change his decision to withdraw troops from Syria. U.S. forces included the elite Delta Force, a U.S. official told Reuters.

Trump indicated that killing Baghdadi was a greater achievement than the 2011 U.S. operation during the administration of Democratic President Barack Obama that killed al Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden, who planned the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks in the United States.

"Bin Laden was a big thing, but this (Baghdadi) is the biggest there is. This is the worst ever," Trump said.

The Baghdadi raid put the spotlight on Trump's uneasy relationship with the U.S. intelligence community. He praised the role of intelligence officials in laying the groundwork for the attack, saying that is the type of activity it should be focused on.

Trump has taken issue with the intelligence community on various issues, including its conclusion that Russian meddling in the 2016 election was aimed at helping him win.

Actress Felicity Huffman released from prison early

2 Actress Felicity Huffman, the first parent in the U.S. college admissions cheating scandal to go to prison, was released from a California facility on Friday, before the end of her 14-day sentence, a prison spokeswoman said. The "Desperate Housewives" star was scheduled to be let out on Sunday, but the spokeswoman cited a policy that allows for the early release of inmates whose release day is on a weekend. Huffman, 56, an Academy Award nominee, turned herself in to authorities at the Federal Correctional Institution in Dublin, California, on Oct. 15. U.S. District Judge Indira Talwani had sentenced her to serve two weeks behind bars after Huffman pleaded guilty to conspiracy related to her payment of $15,000 to have someone secretly correct answers on her daughter Sophia's SAT college entrance test.

Shooting at Texas college party leaves at least 2 dead

3 Texas police said they were seeking a gunman on Sunday who fired randomly at a Halloween homecoming party packed with hundreds of college students, leaving at least two dead and wounding about a dozen more, before fleeing amid the chaos that followed. Authorities said they believed the unidentified male suspect may have gone to the sprawling event facility where the off-campus party was held intending to shoot a particular person, and fired his handgun into the crowd afterwards. "We believe this is a separate incident," Hunt County Sheriff Randy Meeks told a news conference on Sunday morning. "There might have been someone there who was targeted." The shooting happened around midnight on Saturday in Greenville, about 50 miles (80 kms) northeast of Dallas. REUTERS

EU hopes to endorse Brexit delay to Jan. 31

4 The 27 European Union countries that will remain after Brexit hope to agree on Monday to delay Britain's divorce until Jan.31 with an earlier departure possible should the factious UK parliament ratify their separation deal, sources said. British Prime Minister Boris Johnson last week reluctantly requested the three-month delay until the end of January, 2020, after the parliament's lower House of Commons refused to swiftly approve a new Brexit deal he had agreed with the bloc. Any postponement to Brexit can only be granted unanimously by the 27 and French objections have so far prevented a decision as Johnson spars with lawmakers over calling an early election. Diplomatic sources told Reuters the bloc's 27 EU ambassadors would meet at 09:00 GMT on Monday in Brussels to agree on the three-month delay from the current Brexit date of Oct. 31.

Vietnam police take DNA from relatives of suspected truck victims

Nguyen Dinh Gia, father of Vietnamese Joseph Nguyen Dinh Luong who is one of the suspected victims of the 39 people found dead in a refrigerated truck in Britain, is seen at his home in Ha Tinh province, Vietnam. REUTERS

Many of the victims lacked identifying documents.

Police in Vietnam took hair and blood samples on Sunday to get DNA from relatives of people feared to be among the 39 who died in the back of a truck near London last week, their family members said.

The bodies were found on Wednesday in a truck container in Grays, about 32 km (20 miles) east of central London and British police are still trying to establish the identity of victims who in many cases lacked identity documents.

In a poor rice-growing area of northern Vietnam, communities have been plunged into mourning with their hope all but lost for relatives who had set out to seek better lives in Europe and were thought to have been aboard the truck.

The hashtag #RIP39 was trending in Vietnam on widely-used Facebook.

Distraught, Nguyen Dinh Gia said he feared there was very little chance he would ever again see his 20-year-old son, Nguyen Dinh Luong, who had been trying to get to Britain after first making it to France.

"Police from the Ministry of Public Security came to get DNA samples, our hair and blood," Nguyen Dinh Gia told Reuters at Can Loc in Ha Tinh province, where sympathizers gathered at the simple house amid lush rice fields to console the family.

"I advised him not to go because I told him that even though our family had always had nothing and our children were always in hardship, but we brought them up just fine," Nguyen said.

The father of Pham Thi Tra My, who sent a last text message to her family in the early hours of Wednesday Vietnam time, said police had also been to collect samples of blood and hair.

Vietnam's government did not respond immediately for a request for comment. Vietnam's prime minister has called for an investigation into the case.

Police in Britain said on Saturday they had charged one man, 25-year-old Maurice Robinson of Craigavon in Northern Ireland, with 39 counts of manslaughter and other offences including conspiracy to traffic people.

On Sunday, police said three people arrested in connection with the investigation had been released on bail. All three had been questioned on suspicion of manslaughter and conspiracy to traffic people. REUTERS

Tegan and Sara go back to their roots at The Wilbur

Canadian twin sisters Tegan and Sara have never been ones to shy away from trying new things and taking creative risks. Over the course of their 21-year career, their music has run the gamut from earnest acoustic ballads to upbeat, danceable electropop. Now, the duo has ventured into memoir writing with a new book, "High School." The collection of coming-of-age vignettes, which has already become a New York Times bestseller, hit shelves last month — just a few days prior to their ninth studio album, "Hey, I'm Just Like You," a collection of songs penned during their teen years.

This double dose of releases meant that the two had a rare opportunity to showcase much more than their exceptional songcraft and impeccable harmonies when they hit the stage at The Wilbur on Friday night. Instead, the evening was a multimedia love letter to growing up that turned the historic theater into a cozy living room through a combination of book readings, old home videos, stripped-down performances and the twins' signature comedic banter.

Adding to the warm atmosphere was a strict no-phones policy, which — somewhat surprisingly — the mostly millennial crowd obeyed for the duration of the show. "We're trying to cultivate an intimate '90s vibe," Sara explained cheekily. It was also an environment of inclusivity: an on-screen projection prior to the concert reminded attendees of a zero-tolerance violence and discrimination policy, and one dollar from each ticket sold went to the Tegan and Sara Foundation, the twins' charitable organization for LGBTQ women and girls.

While many audience members had undoubtedly seen the indie icons live before, the format was a first for the band. The sisters traded off on reading excerpts from "High School" aloud that explored everything from LSD experimentation and sexual discovery to their first taste of success as the winners of a local battle of the bands. The stories set the tone for each bare-bones performance and wove seamlessly through the 13-song set, which spanned the entirety of their discography. Even longtime fan favorites like "Back in Your Head," "Closer" and "Boyfriend" took on a more raw and emotional tenor when pared back to a single guitar or piano.

Despite the evening's serious themes and mellow ambiance, there was plenty of levity and laughter as well. VHS clips interspersed throughout the show provided a humorous glimpse of the singers as pierced, awkward and relatable teenagers who made up songs about skipping school and professed their admiration for Kurt Cobain while sitting in front of a Courtney Love poster. At another point, Tegan kept bursting into giggles as she attempted to read a book chapter about an amusing trip to the local swimming pool, further buoyed by the audience's laughter.

As the show drew to a close and the audience was brought to its feet, the sisters explained that going back in time to revisit their formative years for these projects wasn't actually that cringeworthy or embarrassing — it was enlightening.

"Be kinder, softer, and more compassionate to your younger selves," Tegan encouraged before the pair launched into a singalong rendition of "Where Does the Good Go" from 2004's "So Jealous." "Because rejecting your younger self is rejecting yourself now." KIM WINDYKA

Pats stay perfect, blast Browns

The Patriots defense once again dominates.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

At this point the NFL should handicap these games and simply not allow the Pats offense to score, as the New England defense can handle the scoring duties just fine.

The Patriots' record-setting D scored its fourth touchdown of the season Sunday in a relatively easy 27-13 win over the Browns to move the team to 8-0 on the season with eight regular season games left to play.

The defensive TD came when Kyle Van Noy helped force a Cleveland fumble in the first quarter, as Browns back Nick Chubb coughed it up. Dont'a Hightower picked up the ball on the ground and proceeded to waltz 26 yards into the end zone to put the Pats up 10-0.

The Browns offense showed promise on the next play from scrimmage when Chubb broke for a huge gain. But with Chubb rumbling into Patriots territory, Pats cornerback Jonathan Jones punched the ball loose for another fumble that was recovered by New England.

Cleveland ultimately turned the ball over on three consecutive snaps in the first quarter.

The Pats defense – with Adam Butler and John Simon leading the way – also came up with a huge sack on Baker Mayfield right before the half, and Jamie Collins dropped Mayfield early in the third quarter with the Browns riding Chubb to some success. The Collins sack turned what would have likely been a TD drive into a Cleveland field goal.

Also in the third, James White broke a screen pass for 59 yards to completely shift the momentum, setting up a Julian Edelman touchdown reception. Edelman ranged across the middle and Tom Brady hit him perfectly in stride to put the Pats up 24-10.

Bill Belichick picked up career win number 300 Sunday, coming against the team with which he got his head coaching start.

Belichick, in his pursuit of long-term and short-term perfection, will surely bring up the ticky-tack issues the Patriots defense had against a talented Cleveland offense, however. After all, Chubb finished with 131 yards on the ground and the Browns moved the ball very well at times throughout the game – highlighted by a Demetrius Harris 21-yard TD reception in the second quarter.

Brady finished with 259 yards passing and a pair of TDs and zero interceptions. Mayfield finished with 194 yards passing, throwing a TD and a pick.

The Patriots will face a stiff test next week, as they will play at the 5-2 Ravens on Sunday Night Football.

Aries Look at the big picture and take things down a notch. Know your capabilities and reserve something substantial to use as a wild card. Intelligence and experience will help you come out ahead.

Taurus A change is encouraged. Consider what you want, and make a proposal that's hard to refuse. Your wit, candor and charm will draw attention and help you get what you want.

Gemini Physical activity should be a priority. Listen to what others have to say, but don't believe everything you hear. Choose to do your own thing instead of getting involved in a joint venture.

Cancer Concentrate on what you want to accomplish. Don't be afraid to do things differently. Your unique approach will draw interest and secure approval and support. Romance is on the rise.

Leo Keep busy. Work toward something that will broaden your awareness and encourage you to look ahead. Refuse to let someone rain on your parade or play mind games with you.

Virgo Get involved. What you do to help others will end up being to your advantage. Someone you encounter will offer valuable information that will bring about positive lifestyle changes.

Libra Don't get angry when you can get moving. Think about what's happening and broaden your options. It's up to you to make things happen. Don't wait for someone to make a decision for you.

Scorpio Embrace what life has to offer. Don't get sidetracked by the actions of others. Do things your way and make adjustments that ease your stress. Romance is encouraged.

Sagittarius Helping others is a nice gesture, but before you commit to doing something, find out exactly what's expected of you. Someone's motives appear to be shady or impractical.

Capricorn Discuss your intentions with someone who could be instrumental in helping you reach your goal. A positive change is heading your way, and preparation will be essential.

Aquarius Stay focused on what you must achieve. Refuse to let anyone take advantage of you. A sensitive issue should be handled delicately. Mull over your options before you respond.

Pisces If you are direct and you keep things simple, you will make headway. Negotiations and contracts are favored, and promises can be made. Romance is in the stars. EUGENIA LAST

Are you going places?

Or looking for places to go?

Managing your benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH) alone may not be enough. If you are on BPH therapy and visiting the bathroom frequently, you may have an overactive bladder (OAB).

The immediate need to 'go' interrupts your day and night – and it may not be caused by your BPH.

- Do you have to use the bathroom at least 8 times a day?
- Do you still wake up 2 or more times each night to use the bathroom?
- Do you experience a need to use the bathroom immediately (urinary urgency)?

If these symptoms disrupt your day and night, you may also have a condition called OAB.

A clinical research study is testing the safety and effectiveness of an investigational drug in men on BPH therapy experiencing OAB symptoms. Over 1000 participants in over 135 study centers across North America and Europe are expected to take part in the COURAGE Study.
